

COLLECTOR'S TOOLKIT

1. Deduction from wages through an income withholding order to the employer
2. Interception of the noncustodial parent's IRS refund or lottery winnings, if arrears are owed
3. Getting a check or money order from the noncustodial parent to be paid to the custodial parent
4. Telephone calls, past-due notices to the noncustodial parent who is delinquent
5. Direct negotiation with the noncustodial parent to settle the debt in good faith
6. Monthly reports to the credit bureau
7. Interest at 0.5 % per month (6 % annually) levied on unpaid balance
8. Suspension of driver's license (or any state occupation license)
9. Contempt of court filing; summons to come to court
10. Possible jail until arrears or an agreed amount is paid
11. Liens placed on assets (property, real estate, cars, bank accounts, etc.)
12. Continued deductions from wages, retirement pay, disability benefits, and Social Security until debt is paid